

Student Exchange Opportunities

The Faculty of Education, Royal University of Phnom Penh, has recently joined the student exchange program with the Faculty of Education and the Graduate School for International Development and Cooperation, Hiroshima University. Through this collaboration, selected M.Ed students receive a full scholarship to participate in the PEACE (Project of Effective Action with CLMV's Education) program to promote the capacity of research and social planning for peaceful, inclusive, and sustainable development in Japan for 3 to 5 months. Besides, the Faculty of Education also joins the student exchange program with PXL University of Applied Sciences and Arts, Belgium. Through this mobility programme, the selected M.Ed students will go to study in Belgium for 4 to 6 months.

What Our Students Say

M.Ed program unlocks me how satisfactory education system institutionalizes. I learned diversely of critical perspectives and practices about education both regional and international through highly qualified lecturers and experienced classmates. What I inevitably earned is research knowledge and research activities through minor/major assignments, projects, and thesis. This program design is immensely hard and strict regarding to the course policy and other required courses, yet it motivates learners to explore why the M.Ed is the right choice for educators.
